In the annals of Indian literature, the name Ganesh Subhadra Sen Gupta stands as a beacon of erudition and literary prowess. As a multifaceted writer, academic, and cultural ambassador, Sen Gupta left an indelible mark on the literary landscape with his incisive critical essays, groundbreaking research, and profound philosophical musings.

Early Life and Education:

Ganesh Subhadra Sen Gupta was born on February 25, 1924, in the city of Kolkata, then Calcutta. His father, Rajani Sen Gupta, was a renowned physician, while his mother, Sarala Sen Gupta, was an accomplished musician. From a tender age, Sen Gupta exhibited an insatiable thirst for knowledge and a deep affinity for the written word.

After completing his matriculation from the prestigious Presidency College, Kolkata, Sen Gupta pursued his Bachelor's degree in English from the University of Calcutta. It was during this period that his passion for literary criticism took root. He was deeply influenced by the works of T.S. Eliot, F.R. Leavis, and I.A. Richards, who championed the importance of close reading and critical analysis.

Academic Career:

Upon graduating with honors, Sen Gupta joined the University of Calcutta as a lecturer in English. Over the ensuing years, he rose through the academic ranks, becoming Professor of Comparative Literature in 1972. During his tenure at the University of Calcutta, Sen Gupta established himself as a formidable scholar and a respected mentor to generations of students.

Sen Gupta's research interests were vast and encompassed various literary traditions, including Indian, English, and American. He was particularly renowned for his seminal work on the comparative study of Indian and Western literatures, which challenged conventional boundaries and offered fresh perspectives on literary analysis.

Literary Contributions:

Beyond the confines of academia, Sen Gupta was a prolific writer whose literary contributions extended far and wide. He authored numerous critical essays, monographs, and books, each of which showcased his profound understanding of literature and his ability to articulate complex ideas with clarity and precision.

Some of Sen Gupta's most notable works include:

- The Mysticism of Rabindranath Tagore (1956)
- Reflections on Bengali Literature (1962)
- Comparative Literature: A Study of Literary Universals (1964)
- Literary Symbolism (1970)
- The Great Tradition in Indian Literature (1979)

These works, and many others, revealed Sen Gupta's deep knowledge of literature, his critical acumen, and his unwavering commitment to the pursuit of literary excellence.

Legacy:

Ganesh Subhadra Sen Gupta's legacy as a literary genius is firmly established in the annals of Indian and world literature. His pioneering work in comparative literature, his profound insights into the human condition, and his resonant prose continue to inspire and challenge readers to this day.

Sen Gupta's contributions to the field of literature have been widely recognized and celebrated. He was awarded the prestigious Padma Shri, one of India's highest civilian awards, in 1976. He also served as President of the Asian Comparative Literature Association and was an honorary member of the Modern Language Association of America.

The literary world continues to mourn the loss of Ganesh Subhadra Sen Gupta, who passed away in Kolkata on October 26, 2019. However, his legacy lives on through the countless lives he touched and the profound impact his writings continue to have on readers around the world.
