About the Book

This book explores the natural history and conservation efforts surrounding the Stroum family's philanthropy. The Stroums have been dedicated to protecting the environment and wildlife for decades, and their work has made a significant impact on the conservation of our planet.

The book is divided into four sections:

- The first section provides an overview of the Stroum family's history and their commitment to conservation.
- The second section explores the natural history of the Pacific Northwest, where the Stroums have focused much of their work.
- The third section discusses the conservation challenges facing the Pacific Northwest, including climate change, habitat loss, and invasive species.
- The fourth section highlights the Stroums' conservation efforts, including their work to protect forests, restore wetlands, and support wildlife research.

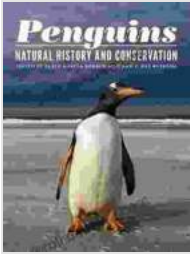

This book is a beautiful and inspiring tribute to the Stroum family's legacy of conservation. It is a must-read for anyone interested in natural history, conservation, or philanthropy.
